Parents Toolkit

It's good to know all the options available from aged 16, whether your child is just discovering their favourite subjects, getting ready to make their GCSE choices, or well on the way to completing this stage of study. The more information your child has on what they can do next, through ongoing conversations, the easier big decisions at the key milestones will be.

Shelforce, Erdington

Shelforce is a supported business dedicated to the assistance of disabled people looking to enter employment. Currently there are around 80 people employed at its PVC-u windows and doors factory in Erdington.

The business runs like any other: it has to see the products it produces to survive. Where Shelforce differs is that it actively recruits and supports severely disabled people, but within Shelforce's own factory, and other businesses in the wider community.

Shelforce invests heavily in training and development. Over 90% of the employees have or are working towards an NVQ, an opportunity also offered to those employees that Shelforce supports in external businesses. The company's Centre of Excellence training facility offers training in the installation and survey of windows and doors to disadvantaged groups looking to break into the building industry.

Parents- information to help

Is someone in your family making choices about higher education? The information you have matters! In a recent survey of 10,000 students, we found that 66% of young people said their family have the greatest influence on their decision about which direction to take after school.

As a parent, carer or family member, the information you have can help a student make the right choice for them.

Volunteering in a cafe

Birmingham Hospice is looking for friendly and enthusiastic volunteers to help run our newly reopened hospice cafes. Volunteers will be key to its success, and we are aiming to have cover in the cafes between 10 am and 4 pm, Monday to Friday. The Hive cafés are at both our Erdington and Selly Park Sites. The main responsibilities of this role include taking and fulfilling orders, managing cash and card payments and cleaning/tidying up the café areas. With time we plan to dispense a wider range of products and food.
